Collection – Naturalisation Records - USA

Migrating to a new country had many implications. A fundamental one was the question of nationalisation – should the migrant become a citizen of their new country? Could they opt for dual citizenship? What were the rules of the new country for changing nationality? Each nation state has their own laws and those laws changed over the years. In the modern era this subject is a 'political' hot potato.

This nationality question does not appear to have received much (if any) attention from the academics researching Cornish migration. The CGMP consider it would be interesting to ascertain answers to questions such as the following. Were the children of the Cornish born migrants automatically citizens of the country of birth? Why was allegiance transferred from the home country to the new country? If a migrant returned to the home country, after having renounced his British Citizenship, could they revert to the nationality of their birth country? Was the nationality position different in Commonwealth/ member countries of the British Empire from say those of foreign countries such as Mexico? Was there an affect upon family relationships? The scenario is pretty complex!

The CGMP are making efforts to accumulate data to aid anyone who may wish to delve into this migration aspect. We are slowly gathering details of those who migrated to the USA and went through (or started) the naturalisation process. Records documenting the naturalization process in the USA appear to fall into five categories: Declarations of Intention, Petitions, Naturalization Certificates, ancillary documents, and Indexes. Various courts throughout the different States were responsible for preserving these documents. They may exist either as original documents, filed separately or bound together, or as copies of the originals entered onto pre-printed forms in bound volumes. Tracing the whereabouts of these historic archives can be problematical.

Researchers using naturalization records will find relatively few early entries for women. From 1855 until the passage of the Married Woman's Act in 1922, citizenship was automatically conferred on the wife of any male citizen. Since then, women have been required to be naturalized in their own right.

Researchers should also note that about 25 percent of 'aliens' filed only the declaration to become a citizen and never completed the entire three step process. Many people filed only a Declaration of Intention because, according to (for instance) the Wisconsin Constitution, it was all they needed in order to vote or to acquire government land by purchase or under the Homestead Act of 1862.

The CGMP find that copies of the Declarations can also provide invaluable family information. Some may tell us the place and date of birth; the date and route of migration; and place of residence at time of the court declaration, the date of the declaration may tell us for how long the migrant was resident in the States before deciding to change nationality. The migrant may have signed the document or may have made his Mark, does that indicate illiteracy?

The oath taken was quite emphatic. RICHARD RULE who migrated in 1835 was 44 years old and made his declaration in Lafayette Co, Wisconsin in 1848. He was left with no doubt about his new national allegiance.

That I have since my arrival remained within the limits and jurisdiction of the United States, and that it is BONA FIDE my intention to renounce all allegiance and fidelity to every foreign Prince, Potentate, or Sovereignty whatsoever, and particularly such allegiance and fidelity as I may in any wise owe to Victoria Queen of Great Britain either as a citizen or subject, and to become a citizen of the United States, and to locate myself for the present in the County of Lafayette in the State of Wisconsin whereof I am now an inhabitant. That I do not now enjoy or possess, nor am I in any wise entitled to any order or distinction of nobility according to the laws or customs of the said Kingdom of Great Britain or any other country. That I am sincerely attached to the principles contained in the Constitution of the United States, and well disposed towards the good order, well-being and happiness of the same; and desire that this, my declaration and report, may be accepted, filed and recorded, preparatory to my intended application to be admitted as a naturalized citizen of the United States, in conformity with the several Acts of Congress, heretofore passed on that subject.

FRANCIS LAWRY was born in St. Agnes, Cornwall in 1814 and sailed from Penzance on the 8th July 1850 and arrived in New York on 24th August 1850. He proceeded to Grant Co., Wisconsin, where, with almost indecent haste, he made his declaration on 22th October 1850. Whether this was because he was in a hurry to renounce his British Citizenship or because he was keen to purchase property or gain voting rights in his new home is not known.

in and for the County of Grant and State of Wisconsin Francis Lawry an Alien, born Free, white person of the age of
